before him. One of them said: "Hold up your hands and make no noise, or you'll commit suicide right here." At the same time he put a pistol dangerously close to the old actor's face.

"Gentlemen," began "Uncle John" in a stage whisper, "I so utterly abhor self-protection that I promise you on my word of honor that I will neither make a noise nor attempt resistance; but permit me to say I think you will find that you have a mistake."

"A mistake? What do you mean?" asked the man with the pistol.

"As well as I can see in this darkness, you look too brave and stalwart to hold a man up for a dollar and a quarter, which I assure you is all the money I have at present."

"That may be true," replied the robber, "but we will search you all the same. Besides, a dollar and a quarter knocks blazes out of nothing."

"Here! here's a roll of something," said the man who was doing the searching.

"Boys," whispered "Uncle John," "the roll is composed of newspaper notices of my acting, which are valuable to you, but I prize them highly and hope you will allow me to keep them."

"Are you an actor?" asked one of the highwaymen in surprise.

"I have grown gray in the profession," replied "Uncle John."

"Then that settles it. We have made a mistake. Actors never have any more money than they want. Here's your dollar and a quarter back, boys, and we are sorry to have troubled you, sir."

"Hold on!" said "Uncle John," as the men were about to leave him. "Perhaps you fellows are hungry. Take this dollar," offering the coin to the one nearest him.

"No, thanks," was the rejoinder; "we would rather wait and catch a politician. We wouldn't have any more luck if we took money from an actor."

But "Uncle John" insisted on giving the men a quarter, just as a memento of the occasion.

Company A, Sixth United States Infantry, in the assault on San Juan Hill, and for which the post sent a casket some weeks ago, will arrive in charge of General Lawton by the steamer Michigan, which sailed from that port on October 12. Captain Wetherell was a member of the Lafayette Post.

The funeral services will take place the next day after the arrival of the steamer (which is expected on the 17th or 18th), at Trinity Church, Broadway and Wall street, at 5 o'clock in the afternoon. Bishop Potter, Dr. Dix and the clergy, aided by a full choir, will officiate. Lafayette Post will be present in uniform and the commanders of every Grand Army post in Greater New York and vicinity have been invited to be present. The pall bearers will be uniformed officers who participated in the battle of San Juan with Captain Wetherell, including Colonel Roosevelt, and all the officers of the regular army. New York is expected to be present in full uniform, Colonel Barrett of the Twenty-second Infantry, with staff and oficers, will also attend.

The regulation escort (with bands from Governor's Island) will be ordered out, and accompanied officers of the United States Army will bear the casket into the church. Following the church service the remains will be taken to Arlington Cemetery for burial by the members of Lafayette Post on a special train to Washington, where the funeral escort will be met by a battalion of Infantry and band for escort through the city to the cemetery, where the Grand Army burial service will be rendered and the farrow valley died.
